COACHES CODE OF CONDUCT

- Coaches must keep in mind at all times that the safety, health and well-being of all participants is their paramount responsibility.
- Football is meant to be rewarding, learning, and confidence building experience for all the participants. This should be strived for by all.
- Winning is what is strived for, however, should be not the ultimate goal.
- Coaches should always remember that they are setting the example for their players. As such, their conduct, actions, and deeds should always be above reproach.
- Coaches should realize that by virtue of their position they are going to receive criticism. If a coach is unable to cope with criticism, they should not accept a coaching position.
- Parents and family and friends of the players are the supporters of the program. Their financial support, volunteer services and participation as fans are the backbone of the program and as such they should be treated accordingly.
- Coaches should never resort to actions that degrade the player, such as name calling, threaten the player's well being/health or subject the participants to any inappropriate pressures that may negatively affect them.

- Coaches should make a maximum effort to be present at all team activities such as practices, games, and any informal or formal activities planned for the team.
- Coaches are financially responsible for all football equipment issued to them and should do whatever is required in order to safe guard the equipment and return it in a timely manner, in a condition that will allow it to be used in-succeeding years.
- Coaches should support the aims, objectives, and activities of the parent organization.
- Any coach (or assistant coach) who feels that he/she cannot abide with the above, should not continue coaching.

Everyone associated with the ARVADA MIDGET FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION (AMFA), whether as a parent, a coach, a manager, a board member or volunteer, has an obligation to report, in writing, to the President of the association, any continuing violations of these guidelines. This report should include all details of the observed violation(s). In accordance with the AMFA by-laws, this report can be cause of an administrative board of review.

COACHES CODE OF CONDUCT

- 1) THE BEST COACHES ARE THOSE WHO:
 - a) Give individual help and are interested in young athletes' development.
 - b) Contributes to the development of young people.
 - c) Teaches skills that young people can use later in life.

- 2) FOOTBALL is meant to be a rewarding, learning, and confidence-building experience for all participants. Coaches should have three major objectives when coaching in sports:
 - a) PHYSICALLY, by learning sport skills, improving physical conditioning, developing good health habits, and avoiding injuries.
 - b) PSYCHOLOGICALLY, by learning to control their emotions and developing feelings of self-worth.
 - c) SOCIALLY, by learning cooperation in a competitive context and appropriate standards of behavior (sportsmanship).

- 3) ATHLETES FIRST, WINNING SECOND! Does it make sense that the emphasis on winning should not be on the winning itself, but on the striving to win? It is the pursuit of the victor, the dream of achieving the goal more than the goal itself that yields the joy of sports. Many outstanding athletes candidly say that their best memories of sports are not the victories themselves, but the months of preparation and anticipation as well as the self-revelation before and during the competition. In short, WINNING ISN'T EVERYTHING, BUT STRIVING TO WIN IS.

- 4) CREDIBILITY. Your credibility is probably the single most important element in communicating effectively with your athletes. Your communication credibility is reflected in your athlete's attitudes about how much they can trust what you say. At the outset, youngsters will give you credibility simply because you occupy the prestigious role of coach. From then on, however, it is up to you whether you maintain and build this credibility or diminish it. You can build credibility in a number of ways:
- a) By being a cooperative-style coach.
 - b) By being knowledgeable about the sport, or at least honest about whatever knowledge you possess.
 - c) By being reliable, fair, and consistent.
 - d) By expressing warmth, spontaneous, and open, also using a positive approach with the athletes.
- 5) COACHES SHOULD RECOGNIZE that parents and family and friends of the players are the supports of the program. Their volunteer services and participation as fans is the backbone of the program.
