

Got cleats, gear, or a stick?

This summer, I'm going to Jamaica with Fields of Growth International to teach kids how to play lacrosse. Most of these kids are new to the sport and don't have any equipment...they are even playing in bare feet! I'm looking for new or used boys' or girls' gear including cleats, pads and sticks to take with me. If you have anything that you've outgrown or aren't using, please bring to the Face-Off Club Dinner on Friday, March 27th or contact me directly:

MISSION: Fields of Growth (FoG) aims to harness the passion of the lacrosse community into positive social impact through global leadership development, service and growing the game. Founded in 2009 by former college lacrosse coach and player, Kevin Dugan, FoG has become a popular non profit among those in the lacrosse world that have a passion for international development. Fields of Growth staff members are passionate and committed to growing the game in the USA and in serving their local communities, however the emphasis of this organization is to harness the passion of the lacrosse community into positive social impact in developing countries.
