

Jr. Steelheads CAP Policies

Chuck-A-Puck night's are one of the only times the Steelheads Organization is able to recognize their namesakes, the Junior Steelheads, so we must be on our best behavior. There will be consequences as a team, and CAP dates will be taken away, should any problems arise during these nights. BYAHA also wants it made clear we want more player participation this season at CAP to show the Steelheads we appreciate being given this opportunity to raise money for our teams. Two plus nights a year is not a lot to ask for our players to show up and help. We as an organization are extremely privileged to be associated with the Idaho Steelheads, and it is a special honor to wear the name "Junior Steelheads", on our jerseys. The Steelheads organization has been a great support in our fundraising efforts, and Chuck-a-puck is a way to show them how much we appreciate all that they have done for us. So let's be at our best!

- It is mandatory that players attend all team CAP nights
Players not attending will not share in team profits; if absence is due to illness, injury, or mandatory school function a parent or sibling shall be substituted.
- All parents should attend at least one assigned CAP night with their team
Exceptions are made for coaches/assistant coaches, BOD members, and TM's (These people have already volunteered countless hours on the teams behalf)
- All participants using free tickets must work the entire designated time until all pucks are cleaned up and put away
- "Blue" away jerseys MUST be worn by team members
- Players MUST read, review and sign the CAP policies and guidelines set by the Idaho Steelheads and the Jr Steelheads. Please provide proof of signature to team CAP Coordinator.
- Parents MUST read, review and sign the CAP policies and guidelines set by the Idaho Steelheads and the Jr Steelheads. Please provide proof of signature to team CAP Coordinator.
