11. Sportsmanship

- It is unfortunate but the league is currently reviewing multiple cases of unsportsmanlike behavior from both Coaches and Players. This notice is going out to reinforce the standards that we expect from the Coaches and inform all members that there is zero tolerance for unsportsmanlike behavior in league events.
- Head Coaches – Coaches should hold themselves to the highest standards since they represent their organization and are a model for the boys. The Coaches must assist the officials in keeping a game under control, on the field and ensuring that spectators exhibit good behavior. The Head Coach is responsible for all persons connected to their team or institution. Coaching the game of lacrosse to young boys is an honor and privilege that carries with it the moral responsibility to contribute to the healthy character development of these young athletes.
- Let's keep things in perspective –

“Sportsmanship holds the strongest values in sports. It holds more value than strength, endurance or any other physical attribute that comes with sports. Sportsmanship is having the mental power to stay composed in a situation that could lead to a conflict. Sportsmanship is being able to endure a loss and not retaliate against the other team or act out in a way that would cause shame to your team. Sportsmanship is being able to uphold your integrity as an athlete and not resort to ways that would be considered cheating. Holding sportsmanship above all other values that come with sports is important and key to maintaining a respectable image in the world of sports.”
