

2015 Huskies Hockey Summer Competitive Camps Coaching Staff

Coach Dave Dyson is the Director of Hockey and Head Varsity Coach for the OPRF Huskies. He has coached in Illinois and Minnesota for over 15 years and has a tremendous passion for developing high-character hockey players. Dyson grew up playing hockey in Buffalo, NY and played ACHA club hockey at West Virginia University. Dyson is a member of the AHAI High School Hockey Committee and serves as the head coach for the Illinois High School Showcase team, which finished first and second the last 2 years.

Coach Steve Meagher is the Assistant Varsity Coach for Huskies Hockey. A native of Binghamton, NY, Meagher grew up playing in the state's Southern Tier Hockey Association and went on to play 4 years of ACHA hockey at West Virginia University. Meagher spent 5 years as the Assistant Varsity Coach for the Bartlett Wild Hawks Hockey Club, where he helped numerous players achieve All-State and Showcase honors while helping lead the varsity squad do the Combined Division's Blackhawk Cup State Championship game in 2012 and the semi-finals in 2013.

Coach Matt Bonaccorsi is starting his second season as Assistant Junior Varsity Coach for Huskies Hockey. A Chicago area native, Bonaccorsi emphasizes hard work and sportsmanship while teaching the fine points of hockey. Bonaccorsi grew up playing for a variety of programs, including the Flames and Mission. Coach Bonaccorsi played 4 years of varsity hockey at Marian Catholic and 2 years of ACHA hockey at Robert Morris and Denver.

Stan Dubicki is the Director of the Huskies Hockey Goalie Camps and will join the program as the fulltime goaltending coach this fall. Dubicki played junior hockey in Canada and teaches the tactical, strategic and mental aspects of goaltending. Dubicki has also served as the goaltending coach for the AHL's Chicago Wolves for the last 4 seasons and has worked for many years with the Franklin Park Panthers Hockey Program and skills camps.

Coach Rob Johnson has been a coach for the Ice Bears house travel program for the last 13 years. He has established a distinguished track record of developing hockey players who have a passion (and respect) for the game. Johnson played youth hockey for the St. Jude Knights and Mt. Carmel High School. He played ACHA club hockey at Illinois State and professional hockey in Amsterdam.

Bryan Mooney learned the game of hockey at Ridgeland Common in Oak Park, starting with the Learn to Skate Program. From there, Mooney moved up to the Oak Park Huskies house travel league and then played for the Chicago Blues from squirt through midget. Mooney was a varsity standout for OPRF Hockey for 3 seasons. He is currently studying Business at Indiana University where he plays ACHA hockey on the school's DIII team.

Roy Radke is one of the top 1996-year players in Chicago. Radke is known for a strong work ethic and relentless desire to improve. He skated for Culver Academy for 2 years and at the prestigious Shattuck St. Mary's during his junior year where his team won the USA Hockey U18 AAA National Championship. Radke recently finished a successful rookie campaign for the Barrie Colts of the Ontario Hockey League and is listed at #104 in the NHL's player rankings for the upcoming 2015-entry draft.

Ryan Blankemeir is an OPRF High School graduate who grew up playing hockey in suburban Chicago for the Blues, Young Americans and Team Illinois. He was drafted by the Chicago Steel and scored 16 goals with 15 assists during his senior year. Blankemeir will play another season of Steel Hockey before heading to Dartmouth College's NCAA DI program in 2016.

Ben Kohen learned to play hockey in Oak Park at Ridgeland Common. Kohen then played defense for the Chicago Blues, Young Americans and Team Illinois. He joined Fenwick varsity as a sophomore and played forward for 3 seasons. Kohen was selected to play for Team Illinois during his senior year and helped his team win back-to-back championships at America's High School Showcase. He currently plays ACHA hockey for DePaul University.

Kyle Nielsen played his youth hockey for the Chicago Bruins and was a 3-year starter for Coach Dyson at the Wheaton West program. Nielsen led the team to a state runner-up finish at the United Center in 2012 and a Blackhawk Cup Final Four in 2013. He is currently a student at DePaul University and the goaltending coach for the Wild Hawks.

Andrew Poetzinger was a standout high school goaltender for Sandburg where he was an All-State player for the Eagles and the Illinois High School Showcase Team. Poetzinger currently plays for the Robert Morris ACHA team that took third-place at Nationals. He has also been named the top goalie in the league and was selected for the ACHA Selects Team that traveled through Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Slovenia and Slovakia in 2014.

Jack Junge just completed one of the most successful careers in Illinois high school hockey history as the backstop for the top team at New Trier (Green) for three seasons. Junge has won two state titles, three All-Star honors and two consecutive selections to the Illinois High School Showcase Team. Junge will be heading to Trinity College (NCAA DIII) in the fall where he'll compete in the school's golf and hockey programs.
