Violations of the Code of Conducts will not be tolerated and violations will be subject to disciplinary action. Violations will be brought to the Drexel Hill Raiders Athletic Association Board of Directors for review and determination as to what type, if any, disciplinary action is appropriate. The Board shall review the allegation/incident and render a judgment. If the Board, in its sole discretion, believes a hearing would be helpful in determining as to what type, if any, disciplinary action should be taken, the accused and aggrieved parties shall be given an opportunity to testify concerning the incident. There is no automatic right to a hearing. The Board, in its sole discretion, will determine who, if anyone, will testify or appear at a hearing. It shall be the responsibility of the Board to determine the appropriate disciplinary action for any offense. The disciplinary actions include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Warning Letter
- Probation
- Letter of Reprimand
- Fine
- Practice/Game Suspension
- Season Suspension

- Lifetime Suspension
- Civil or Criminal Prosecution

Due to the number of potential violations and varying degrees of severity, the Board, in its sole discretion, can decide to take or not take any disciplinary action. No warning is required. Additionally, Drexel Hill Raiders Athletic Association may pursue legal action as appropriate, including instituting a civil lawsuit and/or referring the matter for criminal prosecution, based on the nature and severity of the Code of Conduct violations. The decision of the Board shall be communicated to the accused and aggrieved parties. In the event that the Board's decision and/or disciplinary action are in dispute, the accused or aggrieved party may request a review by the Drexel Hill Raiders Athletic Association President. The request must be in writing. If, in the President's sole discretion, a review is warranted, the President may appoint a disciplinary review committee. The disciplinary review committee shall have a minimum of three members. Pertinent information on the incident including testimony, if any, shall be reviewed. The disciplinary review committee, in its sole discretion, may hold a de novo hearing. Upon review of all pertinent information, the disciplinary review committee shall either endorse or reject the Board's decision and disciplinary action by way of majority vote. In the event of a tie, the chairperson shall cast the deciding vote. If the disciplinary review committee rejects the Board's decision and/or disciplinary action, the committee will be required to issue a recommendation on appropriate disciplinary action.
